

AFRONET WEBSITE REVIEW & REDESIGN REPORT

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The current Afronet website provides a foundational overview of the organization but does not yet position the brand as a high-impact, fundable, or globally competitive biotechnology platform.

Key gaps include:

- Unclear positioning and messaging
- Limited emotional storytelling
- Weak credibility signals
- Lack of structured services and offerings
- No strong conversion pathways

This report outlines strategic enhancements and a full redesign structure to transform the website into a trust-building, partnership-driven, and impact-focused digital platform.

SECTION 1: CURRENT WEBSITE ANALYSIS

1.1 POSITIONING & CLARITY

Observation: The website does not immediately communicate what Afronet does, who it serves, and why it matters.

Impact: Visitors may leave without understanding the organization's value.

Recommendation: Introduce a clear, powerful hero message:

“Advancing Africa’s future through biotechnology and sustainable innovation.”

Supporting line: “We connect science, communities, and industry to solve real challenges in health, agriculture, and sustainability.”

Add primary CTA buttons:

- Partner With Us
- Explore Our Work

1.2 STORY & EMOTIONAL CONNECTION

Observation: The website lacks a compelling narrative about the organization's purpose and journey.

Impact: Low emotional engagement and reduced trust.

Recommendation: Add a “Why We Exist” section:

- The problem: Africa’s unique biotech and sustainability challenges

- The mission: African-led solutions for African realities
- The vision: Scalable, community-driven impact

Include real imagery of people, labs, and field work.

1.3 CREDIBILITY & TRUST SIGNALS

Observation: Limited proof of impact, partnerships, or authority.

Impact: Reduced likelihood of funding, partnerships, or collaboration.

Recommendation: Create a “Trust & Impact” section including:

- Partner logos
- Research affiliations
- Certifications
- Key metrics (projects, communities, outcomes)

1.4 SERVICES & STRUCTURE

Observation: Offerings are not clearly defined or structured.

Impact: Confusion about what Afronet actually does.

Recommendation: Organize into 4 clear pillars:

1. Research & Innovation
2. Capacity Building & Training
3. Community Programs
4. Partnerships & Consulting

Each section should include:

- What it is
- Who it’s for
- Outcomes

1.5 CONVERSION PATHWAYS

Observation: No strong or consistent calls-to-action.

Impact: Lost opportunities for engagement and partnerships.

Recommendation: Add CTAs throughout the site:

- Partner With Us
- Request Collaboration
- Join Our Network

- Support Our Work

Include a simple contact form and downloadable capability profile.

1.6 VISUAL IDENTITY

Observation: Design lacks a distinctive, memorable identity.

Impact: Brand does not stand out.

Recommendation:

- Use authentic African imagery
- Strengthen color system
- Improve typography hierarchy
- Use consistent icons aligned with biotech and sustainability

1.7 THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

Observation: No blog or insights section.

Impact: Missed opportunity to build authority.

Recommendation: Add “Insights” section with articles such as:

- The future of biotech in Africa
- Why local innovation matters
- Bridging science and community

1.8 MOBILE & PERFORMANCE

Recommendation:

- Optimize for mobile-first experience
- Compress images
- Improve loading speed

SECTION 2: FULL WEBSITE REDESIGN WIREFRAME

SECTION 3: STRATEGIC POSITIONING SHIFT

From: An informational website

To: A high-trust, impact-driven, partnership-focused platform

Core Message: “African innovation solving African problems — with global relevance.”

SECTION 4: NEXT STEPS

1. Rewrite website copy using clear, emotional language
2. Redesign layout based on wireframe
3. Source authentic imagery
4. Add credibility and impact data
5. Launch insights/content section

FINAL NOTE

This is not just a design upgrade.

It is a positioning shift from being seen as an organization to being recognized as a leader in African biotechnology and innovation.
